

What's Developing

It's one of those good news-bad news situations.

Getting messages out to businesses in a quick manner just got easier. The Eureka Community Development Company compiled a list of businesses and their emails, so one message can be sent out to all of them with one click. That's the good news.

The bad news is that ECDC only has about a third of the email addresses. A test email was sent to those businesses and it worked well. If your business did not receive this email it is because your address is still needed.

For the two-thirds of Eureka businesses that did not get the email and would like to be a part of that quick-to-know group, just get your email address to ecdc@valleytel.net. This will be a work in progress, so email addresses will constantly be added to the list. There is no deadline.

Eureka businesses extend well beyond Main Street and well beyond Eureka city limits. Any business that calls Eureka their hometown or does business in Eureka is welcome to be included in that mailing list.

Wanda Jundt